Current measures and business activities at LIKAT

Covid-19, the disease caused by the new coronavirus SARS-Cov-2, is spreading rapidly and requires responsible behaviour. The LIKAT maintains the research activities. However, in order to do justice to its responsibility and to protect the health of our employees, sponsors and partners, the institute has reorganized its work processes.

The most important facts in brief:

- As far as desired and possible, our employees can work in home office.
- As a relevant research institution, we are involved in a variety of important projects with corresponding liabilities. For this reason, laboratory activities are maintained as far as possible, albeit with more stringent preventive measures (compliance with hygiene standards, maintaining distances, providing additional disinfectants, etc.).
- At present no business trips are carried out. All events were cancelled. Those returning from abroad stay at home for 14 days before resuming their work at the institute.
- LIKAT employees have the greatest possible flexibility of working hours to care for children and relatives in need of care.
- There is no new recruitment of foreign colleagues until June 01, 2020.
- The Board of Management consults daily in order to adapt the measures to current developments as quickly and as well as possible.

You are welcome to contact us by e-mail. However, should the processing time be delayed, we ask for your understanding.

We will continue to inform you about new developments regarding the work processes at LIKAT on our website.
